IRA IS AN ENTREPRENEUR, marketer, influencer and communications strategist who specializes in guiding business enterprises to achieve sustainable growth. He currently works with CEO's and CMO's to tell the stories of their companies and move the needle.

Ira's expertise has been honed creating and revitalizing brands, including the building from scratch of a $4 billion publicly traded, multi-national company which included a $400 million IPO and two multi-million dollar mergers. He is a 30-year business veteran and entrepreneur who has created and sold an agency, worked with some of the biggest brands in the world and has guided numerous companies in telling their story to their markets.

He began his career as a photojournalist at the Associated Press with newspaper stops in Los Angeles and New Jersey. Following his journalism career, he continued marketing and communications work with companies in the industrial, medical and hospitality fields. Ira also works with up and coming business leaders, entrepreneurs and students through mentoring and teaching.

He has a bachelor's degree from California State University, Long Beach, an MBA with an emphasis in marketing from the University of Phoenix, Reno, and is a graduate of the Executive Leadership Program at Columbia University. Ira has also attended executive education at New York University and the Colorado School of Mines.

Ira was named the Most Influential Marketing Executive in Nevada for 2018 by Acquisitions International and the top Chief Marketing Officer in the Western U.S. for 2017 by Corporate Vision Magazine.
